

Does Your Back Ache?

If you are a woman and you have this symptom get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound without delay. Backache seems an invention of the evil one to try woman's souls. Only those who suffer this way can understand the wearing, carefree misery.

We ask all such women to read the two following letters for proof that Mrs. Pinkham's medicine cures backache caused by female diseases.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world about it. I suffered from female troubles and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I am ready to tell every one what this medicine has done for me."—Mrs. Emma Inse, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Pittsburg, Pa.—"I had backache for four months steady and tried everything for it, but nothing helped me until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After the first bottle I felt a change. I took five in all and I am cured. I have not had any backache since. I think the Compound is wonderful for women."—Mrs. G. Leiser, 5219 Kinkaid St., E. E., Pittsburg, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made thousands of cures of such cases. You notice we say has cured thousands of cases. That means that we are telling you what it has done; not what we think it will do. We are stating facts, not guesses.

We challenge the world to name another remedy for female ills which has been so successful or received so many testimonials as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

THE ACQUITTAL OF OLIVER

something of the procedure of the kangaroo court was discussed. It was brought out that the judge of the court was Edwards; the sheriff, one Ruiz, and the district attorney, Daley. All three of them testified that these tools had been taken from the prisoners who had been put into jail and that it was the practice to turn such treasure over to the custody of Judge Edwards for safe keeping that no improper use might be made of it. Improbable as was the statement that all this junk could have escaped the search of the outside jailer, it evidently impressed the jury.

Much was also made by the defense of the fact that Greenfield had left the country at the time of the mutilation of the jail and that therefore Oliver could have had no motive for trying to break out.

It is stated that when the jury began its deliberations it stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal; a little later, under the persuasive arguments of the minority against the blighting by a conviction of a useful career, the nipping of a bud of promise, the majority dwindled away on each successive ballot until just before the end there were ten for acquittal. When the now majority began to talk of sending out for blankets for the night, the other two surrendered.

Oliver had not taken the stand and the court had instructed the jury that that fact should be weighed against him. That instruction is always given in such cases, but in this case it appeared that the jury weighed that fact in his favor. His self-repression was not to be without its reward.

Oliver's Rules of Conduct. While the jury was out Oliver, who was sitting by the sheriff, engaged him in conversation. "I make it a rule," said Oliver, "never to plead guilty; I can't do you any good and it may do you a great deal of harm."

Out of his experience, Oliver described to the sheriff another regulation of criminal conduct: "I also make it a rule never to go on the stand or take an active part in my defense. In that way I do not complicate the situation for my lawyer and I am in no danger of saying anything that I might wish had not been said."

"A very good rule," observed the sheriff. "In this case Bullard would probably have asked you something about the 'O. P. Dump' (the vernacular for the Ohio penitentiary) for the sheriff had had an intimation that Oliver had done time there, though he had not been fully informed. At this casual observation, Oliver started and under further questioning he told why he had been there. It was a story of murder.

An Admitted Murderer. Oliver said that some years ago he shot a man at Dayton, Ohio. The shooting took place one night. It was not his intention, Oliver said, to kill and he had reason to believe that he was not suspected of the affair. The man lingered, but sank slowly, and when it was evident that he was going to die shortly, Oliver, who knew him, further to remove himself from suspicion, with some other acquaintances visited the chamber of the dying man, who roused, pointed his finger at him and said, "He did it."

Oliver was arrested, convicted of murder in the first degree and was sentenced to the penitentiary for life. His father, who was wealthy and influential, secured a new trial for him and he was convicted of manslaughter and was given an indeterminate sentence of from one to twenty years. He was released at the end of five years, less than a year ago, and came west.

The California courts are noted for the way they beat down on malefactors, and it is estimated that with his record of forgery at Los Angeles he will get about twenty years at Folsom or San Quentin.

An Accomplished Crook. Altogether, Oliver is believed to be the most accomplished crook that the county jail has perhaps ever held. He is less intellectual and possesses less finer than Louis V. Eytling, but he is more versatile. Prisoners say that he is an expert in matters of steel construction and that he had given them interesting dissertations on the textures and hardness of steel and the more advanced methods of treating it from jail interiors.

He had, so far as is known, said nothing to his companions about the Los Angeles forgeries, but he had talked to them a great deal about forgeries in general. He advised them that that line should not be taken up without proper equipment and that a necessary part of the paraphernalia was the "protectograph," the device used by banks and business houses to perforate that part of the check or draft where the figures are written, to prevent alterations. The "protectograph," said Oliver, is at the same time a guarantor to the uninitiated of genuineness and an anaesthetic for suspicion. The "protectograph," by the way, was used on one of the Los Angeles checks. The last protectograph owned by Oliver was obtained at a cost of $70, and it paid for itself many times over.

WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS ITS LAST MEETING

Local Organization Listens to Interesting Annual Reports.

With an attendance fairly representative of the entire membership, the Woman's club of Phoenix held the last meeting of the club year yesterday afternoon in the rooms in the W. C. T. U. building. The report of the president was read, as were also the reports of the chairmen of the several committees. These reports indicate a flourishing condition and reflect great credit upon all who have been instrumental in making this possible. It was shown that there is a neat balance in the treasury.

Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, president of the National Florence Crittenton mission, was the guest of the club at this meeting and she addressed the gathering in a most happy vein. She said she doubted if there were many women who could claim more truly to be a club woman as she held membership in twenty-seven different organizations.

The next meeting of the club will be held on October 18, at which time it is expected that the work of advancing the interest of the proposed club house will be taken up with vim.

THE TOONEY BURGLARS INDICTED AT TUCSON

That Had Raided That Place Before Coming to Phoenix.

The Tooney burglars will not be tried in this court. Sheriff Nelson of Pima saw them first. When they were arrested at Yuma by Sheriff Livingston on Sunday night a lot of jewelry which had been stolen from Tucson citizens was also found on them and the sheriffs of both this county and Pima were informed. Sheriff Nelson received his message on Sunday night and went on to Yuma. He took the prisoners back to Tucson and the grand jury being in session they were indicted yesterday. Such of the jewelry as was identified as a part of the Tooney haul will be sent here. So far as is known there is only a bracelet. Among the plunder not claimed for Tucson is an Elgin watch but no description of it has been received.

It was understood from the first telegram that the four men in custody were brothers but it was learned yesterday that two were whites and two negroes. Nothing was found on the latter and they were discharged.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers.

WHY SUFFER WITH POOR EYESIGHT HEADACHES NERVOUSNESS

We will relieve you. Proper treatment of the eyes will restore the eyesight, if it has not been too long neglected. It is also the only rational treatment for Headaches and Nervous conditions. Headache powders and bromides give temporary relief only by reducing the heart's action. Proper treatment of the eyes and our rightly fitted glasses will permanently relieve these conditions. Let us refer you to any of our many thousands of satisfied patrons in Arizona who are wearing our glasses. Our prices for examining the eyes and making glasses are so moderate that no one can afford to endanger their sight by dealing with eye doctors of unknown reliability.
